Discovery has never simply followed a recipe. People need space to tinker, experiment or simply "make" new things. The European Forum Alpbach is offering creative minds a temporary workshop in the form of the disused Alpbach swimming pool.
Once again, food entrepreneur Tobias Judmaier will transform the site into a lab for sustainable lifestyles. In what must be the highest lying "Fab Lab" in Europe, the Happylab invites you to test out the emancipatory potential of digital tools such as laser cutters and 3D printers in do-it-yourself workshops. Dive into the world of self-sufficiency and do-it-yourself and meet the pioneers from around the world creating alternatives to the throw-away society.
Alongside the exhibition in the former pool area, the DIY factory on the upper floor the Off.Space turns into the scene of encounter and celebration.

Pop Up Fab Lab

Digital Fabrication for everyone: Happylab Pop-Up Fab Lab

Happylab is Austria's first Fab Lab – a place where ideas and projects can be brought to life immediately with the help of 3D printer, Laser Cutter, CNC miling machine, Vinyl Cutter and electronics. At the Happylab Pop-Up Fab Lab, workshops (30-45 minutes) will take place every day from 5 - 10 p.m. in which visitors can realize small projects using the digital fabrication tools on site. As a collective Co-Creation project the Open Source robot „InMoov" by French designer Gael Langevin will be built.

„Simply hold the cress once", that is the title of an artistic intervention by Roland Maurmair. The Tyrolean artist fills one part of the pool with earth, sows cress-seeds and let grow the writing: "simply hold the cress once". In addition one can watch the projection of a video showing the artist standing outside for a few days waiting for the cress in his hands to grow. While watching the video the audience can get an impression of the taste by trying bread with butter and cress.

In his work Roland Maurmair focuses on the unremarkable, he shows us details we tend to overlook in everyday life.
He tells us profound stories, now and then political, mostly humorous, always poetical. The works of art present themselves in a very complex way: intermedial media-installations, sculptures, performances, videos, but also graphics. Roland Maurmair's art feels like an experiment between instinct and intellect, science and poetry, it is always touching.

Exhibition: Tools of Enlightenment

The cooperation between the University of Applied Arts Vienna and the European Forum Alpbach is a key building block in the programme on offer at Alpbach. For the first time within this framework, artistic works by students will be on display in a wide variety of locations – in public spaces as well as at sites around the Congress Centre. The students have worked intensively with the themes raised by the topic of „New Enlightement", developing concepts and artworks around them.

The students of the TU Vienna were faced with the common problems of the urban environment and how to deal with a more inclusive and sensitive design approach. The participants had to find their own project site, to which they should have an emotional, cultural and political relationship.

After finishing the design proposal the participants were asked to translate the knowledge they had gained into a performance element. This would play a key role in enabling people from non-related fields to understand the purpose of certain design decisions during the Built Environment Symposium. Finally three interesting projects were chosen, which reflect the general position of the student group as a whole and the general theme of this year's topic of "New Enlightenment".
